EDMONTON, ALBERTA, MONDAY, JULY 18TH, 1892.

SEMI-WEEKLY, 8 PAGES.

LOCAL.

J. F. C. BOWN went to Calgary on Friday's train.

New potatoes as large as a man's fist at Fort Saskatchewan.

WHEAT is in head all over the district. Also oats and barley.

MRS. McDougall, sr., and Miss McDougall arrived from Morley on Thursday's train.

MRS. W. L. WOOD, Mrs. McDougall, sr., and Miss McDougall left for the Landing on Saturday.

JOHN HALLAM, jr., of Toronto, was in Calgary on the 13th to buy wool. It is to be hoped he will visit Edmonton.

THE BULLETIN garden has ripe raspberries, of a cultivated variety received two years ago from the experimental farm.

A COURT of the Ancient Order of Foresters was organized in Edmonton, on July 7th, by W. A. Foy. The court starts with about thirty members.

A HORSE race took place at Fort Saskatchewan on Friday afternoon last, between Fielders' "Beauty" and Henderson's "Blue," stakes $50 a side; won by the "Blue." A good deal of money changed hands.

THE Calgary Herald calls upon the people of that town to vaccinate. People here have been desirous of being vaccinated ever since the first reports of small-pox on the coast were received, but so far no vaccine matter has been secured by the medical men.

THE case of Daly vs. Robertson, regarding the right of the former to have a street allowance adjoining his lot, purchased from the latter, which was decided in his favor at last court, has been appealed by defendant Robertson to the Supreme Court of the Northwest in banc at Regina.

A CRICKET match, between Fort Saskatchewan and Clover Bar teams, was played at the former place on Friday last. The Clover Bar team was one man short. Only one innings was played. Fort Saskatchewan won. The score was: Clover Bar 86, for 9 wickets; Fort Saskatchewan 100 for 8 wickets.

WM. BIRD, an old resident of Edmonton, died on Thursday morning at 2 o'clock, and was buried on Friday afternoon in the Edmonton cemetery. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. C. Cunningham. Mr. Bird has been a resident of Edmonton for many years, and formerly ran the H. B. grist mill, which was located on the creek opposite town, where he resided.

THE town corporation has entered an action against Brown & Curry claiming a declaration that the building at present occupied by them is a nuisance, and asking an injunction to compel its removal. Brown & Curry are defending on the ground that the portion of land occupied was never dedicated as a street, that they are owners and occupiers of same, and that compensation should have been allowed, to be settled by arbitration.

JULES ROYAL, assistant land agent, was notified to-day, by agent Anderson, that he was suspended from office. Mr. Royal asked what were the reasons, but was informed that the agent had no reasons to give. Of course any public official is subject to suspension, pending enquiry into anything alleged against him, but it is an unheard of proceeding to suspend a man and refuse to inform him of the reason, or give him an opportunity to state his case. Mr. Royal has been employed in the land office for over a year, and has given general satisfaction. His suspension will be heard of with surprise and regret, and the full reason will be emphatically demanded.

THE rush for "ile" continues. A large party went out on Wednesday and staked the following claims on section 25, township 56, range 26: W. Cust, W. Gordon Cumming, E. Carey, D. E. Noyes, G. Noyes, D. Maloney, T. Hourston, J. Gibbons, John Norris, Geo. Hutton, P. Flynn, H. Jamieson, Geo. Gagnon, Jas. O'Donnell. The party had a series of most exciting experiences finding stakes, cutting lines and losing themselves—or rather in the other follows losing themselves. Geo. Gagnon and W. Cust, two of the oldest old timers in the country, in an excited chase for corner stakes found each other in the heart of the woods, but camp nowhere. They were finally rescued by a searching party—so the others say; but they claim that it was they, and they only, who steered the alleged searches safely back to camp. The party were much surprised on reaching the land office on Friday morning to be confronted with the information that a telegram had been received the evening before from Wm. Pearce, Inspector of mines at Calgary, telling the agent not to receive any applications for entry, as proceedings regarding petroleum claims were in abeyance under an order in council of last October.

A LARGE party of farmer delegates from Nebraska arrived on Thursday's train accompanied by H. H. Smith, Dominion government immigration agent. Their names and residences are as follows: Thos. Swan, Brunswick; Thos. Browning, Ewing; J. Calder, Emporia; Alex. Graybiel, Orchard; A. G. Bagley, Coleridge; W. Camack, Jessop; J. W. Reider, Broomfield; Rev. Mr. Nicol, Millerboro; James Sam's, Rogers; H. P. Moore, Leigh; J. Gadsden, W. Mitchell-Innis, Ernest Mitchell-Innis, Schuyler; C. Bevington, Creighton; Jas. Keegan, Dales-town, South Dakota. These gentlemen are mostly from the northeastern part of the state. They came to Edmonton almost direct from Winnipeg, stopping off only at Brandon, Moosomin and Regina. They will visit other parts of the Northwest before returning home. On Friday forenoon they viewed the town and in the afternoon went out to the Sturgeon. On Saturday they went to Stony Plain. On Monday they will go to Beaver lake. They will look well over the district before leaving. Mr. Smith, under whose guidance they are, is well acquainted with this section of the country having been with Walker's land examining party last season.

OUR old friend Paget, of the Parry Sound Colony, has been heard from again. The cutting is from the Huntsville Forester, so it will be seen that his effusions get all the publicity the newspapers of the Muskoka and Parry Sound districts can give. It will also be seen that Mr. Paget's peculiar gift improves with cultivation: "Mr. F. Paget writes from Pincher Creek, in the Edmonton district, Northwest Territory, to the Sundridge Echo as follows:—When I arrived in Edmonton it was very hot in the middle of the day and would freeze ice at night. Well that was not so bad, but it got cold in day time as well. I heard from good authority that on April 26th and 27th that it was 22 degrees below zero, which was pretty pleasant. The winters are about seven months duration and it frequently gets 60 below zero. There never is a season that you would call spring, you get a few fine days with pieces of winter mixed in with it. The soil is rich in substance, all covered with alkalie beds and little lakes, and the remainder is covered with willow brush, which is something terrible to get rid of. As to good farms, I never saw such a thing in the country. The farmers all want to rent their farms for little or nothing, which is not a good sign. The only good crop they ever had was last year and they all own up to it. I don't want to run it down because I have left that part, but I don't like to see it get a wrong name when it don't deserve it. I have travelled for three weeks in the Edmonton district and seen the best farms in it. I also travelled from Calgary to Macleod, 125 miles, from there to Pincher Creek settlement up into the Crow's Nest Pass, to the dividing point between British Columbia and Alberta, with a team and wagon. I would not live in it under any circumstances. On the plains between Calgary and Fort Macleod I saw thousands of dead cattle from the storms of the 26th and 27th of April. Now if can find space in you your paper I would be very thankful for you to insert this, so that people who think of emigrating to Alberta will have an idea of the country it really is. There is not much to be said regarding the above. With the exception of the admission that the land is rich, it is a lie from start to finish.

KANSAS AND MANITOBA.

Toronto World.

The Globe tells us that harvesting has begun in Kansas and that the wheat crop will be the largest in the history of the State—about sixty million bushels. The farmers are crying for harvest hands and 20,000 could find work. The paper, after this fitful gleam of cheerfulness over the happy condition of Kansas, turns its face to its own land and immediately resumes its wonted gloom. There is all rain, floods and swollen rivers. If the reports of plenteous crops reached the organ from our Northwest it would either ignore them or warn us that the information should be largely discounted, owing to the boom propensities of the Northwesterners. But bless your heart they swallow the Kansas estimates without even demanding a one per cent. reduction. Of course Kansas boomsters would never think of over-stating the crops. The World hopes that the estimate is a true statement of facts, for from all it can hear the people of that unhappy state in common with the rest of their western fellow countrymen are in a sad way. From where does the loudest cry of distress proceed in the United States? Why, from the western grain states. Where does socialism and its literature appear to find most acceptance? Why, from those new rich prairie lands which have scarcely yet become used to the novelty of the plow. Where do the fads of free silver paper money and People's parties (all sure signs of social and financial distress) find the warmest acceptance? Why, in these virgin acres west of the Mississippi river. From that region comes a steady howl against railroad managers, bankers, mortgage companies and other organizations of capital.

SMALL-POX IN VICTORIA.

A despatch from Victoria, B. C., of July 11th says: Small-pox is epidemic in Victoria, there being over forty cases reported up to last night, and in consequence there is a general panic. At a meeting of the members of the medical profession it was urged that immediate steps be taken to effectively prevent the spread of the disease. There is simply no place at present to which the afflicted can be moved. It is thought some place will be provided to-day. Meantime tents are being erected. The Driard House, the leading hotel here, was closed to-day voluntarily, and the health officers have closed the Clarence, Balmoral and the Western hotels and a number of boarding houses.

A COMPARISON.

The following is an extract from an article in the Detroit Echo, comparing the British political system with that of the United States. The BULLETIN reports that it has not space for the whole article but the remainder merely confirms and clenches the arguments and assertions here given.

"* * * * * Thus in one month the British people, by the peculiar plasticity of their constitution and its sensitive responsiveness to the public will, are able to consider and determine the most vital questions, and to change their government so as to bring that will into effect in law, or to mark with their condemnation or disapproval the new proposals and give the conservative party a new commission to continue the policies which that party represents. It cannot be denied that this is very direct government of the people, for the people and by the people. If they do not get what they want it will be their own fault and not any fault of the constitution or of the sovereign, the latter being a mere figure-head who interposes, and can interpose, no obstacle whatever to the accomplishment of the public wishes as expressed in elections.

"In the United States the people are also engaged in a contest in which the policies of the two great parties are in issue at the tribunal of popular sovereignty. Two years ago the issue was submitted in an election for representatives in congress. The people voted overwhelmingly against the McKinley tariff and against the single gold standard, which were the only questions involved. A house was elected which was more than two-thirds against those measures. But, in spite of the popular verdict, nothing has been done, the house so elected and so disposed being itself afraid to make any laws so near another election. But if the house had been ever so determined it could do nothing, as the senate and president would have resisted and paralyzed its efforts to grant the people what they had demanded with such emphasis of overwhelming majorities.

"* * * * * It is this peculiar clumsiness of our system of government which has saved the policies of the republican party from overthrow during the past 20 years. National elections have taken place every two years. Since 1872 the republican party has been in a minority in all these elections, except three, and that party has carried but three houses in all that time. But republican principles and policies have characterized the whole action of the government, regardless of adverse popular action at the polls."

EDMONTON BULLETIN, JULY, 18, 1892

FIRES.

On Tuesday about midnight fire was noticed in W. Edmiston's building, in process of erection on Jasper avenue, north side. The alarm was given and within five minutes the fire engine was at the place and the fire was put out. It had got good headway, the centre studding of the building being charred half way to the ceiling and the flooring boards burned half through. The flames filled the east half of the lower story of the building when the engine arrived and there was a stiff breeze blowing, but the stream from the engine, although small, quenched it like magic. The building was under construction by A. F. Degagne for W. S. Edmiston, the walls were up, the floors and ceilings in and the roof on. It was almost ready for the plasterers. The promptness of the alarm and the short distance of the engine shed from the scene of the fire assisted greatly in securing the early arrival of the engine, but these would have been of nouse had not the men of the fire brigade and the citizens generally turned out in an incredibly short space of time, and with the fullest will to do all that could be done to save property. The loss occasioned by the fire was very trifling. As the building was isolated no great danger of the fire spreading, even in the worst event. The general impression at the time was that there was the fire was caused by the accidental throwing down of a match by some person who had gone inside the building to look at it, or perhaps by a coal or spark from a pipe, but subsequent events lead to the almost universal belief that it was the work of an incendiary.

On Sunday afternoon about three o'clock the alarm of fire was sounded from the bell at the public schoolhouse. Smoke had been seen coming from the back kitchen of the residence being erected by S. S. Taylor, on the H. B. property in the next block beyond the public schoolhouse. The smoke was seen by Miss Maggie Taylor as she was passing the house, and the alarm was rung by a little boy, who was on his way to Sunday school. The engine and hook and ladder truck were out promptly, but the run from the engine shed was very long. When the engine arrived the fire had got beyond the possibility of control. The house was full of flames and the wind was blowing very strongly. As soon as it was seen that nothing could be done to save the burning building, attention was directed to Mrs. Hardisty's dwelling, which, although a considerable distance from the fire, was in the direct line of the wind which carried fragments of burning shingles, and scraps of tar paper right to it. The engine was brought to play on the roof, which was soon drenched, and the danger averted. At the same time the boards and scraps surrounding the burning building were being removed and water thrown on the outer circle of the fire to prevent it reaching some brush piles that were around. As the burning building was completely surrounded by trees the force of the wind in carrying fragments was much broken. In a little over an hour from the first alarm of fire the building was only a mass of coals. In hour or two more all danger of the fire spreading had ceased and the engine was taken home but a watchman was left to guard the place. The building was nearly completed and most of the plastering was done. There is very little doubt that the fire was the work of an incendiary, as the carpenters had cleared up the building of shavings on leaving it for the plasterers and an accidental match or spark would not have started it. The windows were not put in so that there was the greatest possible draft through the building to fan the fire. The loss will be about $2,700, which will probably fall upon the contractor, Jas. McDonald. The fire brigade could not have acted more promptly or effectively than in this case, but there had not been any arrangement made with the water company and the tank wagons were not available at all quickly. The horses were out and the men away, as might naturally be expected on a fine Sunday afternoon, and no doubt if the fire was the work of an incendiary he had this in view. Two of the tank wagons were brought up one after the other by E. Raymer. Luckily there was no shortage of water as there was a large cistern full at Mrs. Hardisty's house. Some arrangement should at once be made by the council to have the tank wagons immediately available at every fire, for an engine is not much use without water.

To-day, about eleven o'clock, the alarm was again sounded from the town bell, and the engine and hooks were out as promptly as before. The fire was in the Jasper House, but had not developed beyond smoke when the engine arrived. At first the fire was supposed to be in the attic but it finally proved to be under the cooking range, from whence the smoke rose between the outside wall and the plaster to the roof of the frame addition. On being discovered it was soon put out. No great damage was done. The outside wall was hacked through in a couple of places and a little of the sheeting pulled off. There may also have been some damage done by water, but not of any serious consequence.

THE LAND OFFICE.

The following is from the Hansard report of the proceedings of parliament on July 2nd:

Edmonton Crown lands and timber agents' offices. $10 000

MR. LAURIER. I would again call the attention of the Minister to the land office at Edmonton. I put a question some time ago to the government as to whether it was their intention to remove the office to the south side of the Saskatchewan river. I was glad to hear from the hon. gentleman at that time that there was no such intention on the part of the government, but there must be a misapprehension there, or the hon. gentleman's agents have not rightly understood the intention of the government, because I find that the local agent has published the following advertisement:

"NOTICE—The timber and land office has been removed over to South Edmonton, immediately opposite the depot built for the immigration.

"THOS. ANDERSON,
"D. L. A. & C. T. A."

Has this order been cancelled?

MR. DEWDNEY. Yes; he had no authority whatever to do that. The intention was to remove temporarily to the south side and not to close the office on the north side. I was surprised to hear that this notice had been issued, and the interpretation the agent has put upon his instructions is wrong.

MR. LAURIER. I have received numerous complaints about this, but I suppose the answer will go that there is no intention of making any change?

MR. DEWDNEY. There is no intention of making any change.

THE COMMERCIAL'S OPINION.

The Winnipeg Commercial has the following editorial comment regarding the land office trouble: "The proposal to remove the land office to the new town was a trivial affair, but the demonstration it provoked in opposition thereto, shows how the feeling runs. Railways are granted aid with the object not only to open up the country for new settlers, but also to benefit the pioneer settlers who have gone in ahead to subdue the country in advance of the railways. These pioneers very naturally conclude that their interests stand foremost in this matter. When government aid is given to a railway company, we think the government should make it a condition that the interests of the pioneer settlers should be protected as much as possible. The building up of new railway towns, close by and in competition with these pioneer towns, has been considerable of a hardship in this country, when in some cases it would have been as convenient to establish the railway point in the old town. The case of the old town of Macleod is an example of this nature. The object is to make as much money out of the land as possible, and instead of running the railways into the old towns, new towns are built up on the name and prestige of the pioneer towns. In the case of Edmonton, the town is located on the north side of the river, and it would cost considerable to carry the railway across to the old town. It seems a small affair for the government, however, instead of endeavoring to protect the interests of these pioneers, to attempt to injure them by sanctioning the removal of the government offices to the new townsite, especially as it appears that the old town is the most convenient place for these offices."

The Orangemen of Calgary had a church parade on Sunday, July 19th. The sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Ellis.

The Calgary Herald advocates a twelve mill tax rate for this year.
